▶ Canadians Eric Gillis, left, and Reid Coolsaet celebrate after placing fourth and third in the Toronto Waterfront Marathon yesterday.

Olympic. Warmup

Duo to rep Canada at London 2012 Games

Both Gillis and Coolsaet will be packing for the 2012 Olympic Summer Games in London after battering the Olympic standard of two hours 11 minutes 29 seconds. Canada hasn't had a Canadian in an Olympic marathon since Bruce Deacon in Sydney in 2000. Coolsaet finished the race with a personal-best time of 2:10.55, while Gillis was fourth, finishing just under the qualification mark with a time of 2:11.28. More coverage, page 4.

Tattooed cops a quandary for OPP brass

- No date set for OPP to outline new rules
- Toronto police only hide 'offensive' tats

An Ontario Provincial Police constable with tattoo-covered arms was mistaken for a "gangbanger" by a superior officer at a traffic stop in northwestern Ontario in the spring of 2010.

The superior thought the man had stolen a police cruiser and OPP uniform. The tattooed officer was later directed to cover up his arms based on a newly implemented policy that targeted offensive tattoos.

The constable didn't think he was being offensive. With the face of policing evolving, a younger cohort has embraced tattoos. The OPP is struggling to design a policy that balances freedom of expression and professional image.

The constable from the example above had a sleeve tattoo on his right arm depicting a dragon and tiger — martial arts symbols. He also had a large tattoo of the face of his grandfather as a memorial.

"He was raised by his grandfather after his parents passed away and it had sentimental meaning for him," said Jim Christie, head of the Ontario Provincial Police Association. The officer filed a grievance and the OPP responded with an even tougher policy, forcing all 9,000 members to cover up any visible tattoos.

"You will see pictures of uniformed officers whose whole bodies are covered in tattoos. If anybody tells you that wouldn't scare an eight-year-old girl who's lost, then I'm all wet."
OPP COMMISSIONER CHRIS LEWIS

An arbitrator later struck down the coverup protocol, leaving the OPP without a policy and putting them in a delicate situation.

Father grieves over injured daughter

TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

▶ Natasha Vaz

As Ryan Vaz's 20-year-old daughter fights for her life with a severe brain injury, he is pleading for drivers to listen to his message:

"This is what speeding does. My beautiful daughter will never have her life back. It is gone," he says.

Before Oct. 4, Natasha Vaz was a Humber College business student who was working at the TD Bank to save money to go on to get her MBA.

"She will never step foot in a university again," her father says.

After Natasha's car was T-boned by another vehicle that police say was speeding, she was airlifted in critical condition to Sunnybrook hospital.

"She was in a coma for five days and now that she has woken up, her brain will never function the same. It's like when she was a child again," Vaz says.

Natasha also suffered a shattered pelvis and severe spinal and head injuries.

Vaz is calling for the province to bring in harsher penalties for people caught street-racing and speeding, "so innocent people aren't being hurt," he said. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Residents seek to ground skydivers

'Big ugly plane' may be great to jump out of, but people in Georgina complain of noise, fumes, trampled azaleas As many as 21 skydivers can be seen in the sky during jumps

Fed up with deafening noise, noxious fumes and rogue skydivers landing on their properties, residents of Georgina, on the southern shore of Lake Simcoe, are petitioning their town council to take action against the Parachute School of Toronto.

Some 200 irate Georginians have signed the petition and presented it to local politicians. A town council report on the matter is expected next week.

"If they wreck anything, say they land in your azaleas and destroy them, that's criminal trespass," says resident Paul Nicholls, who is spearheading the protest.

The school has been operating since 1974, though it used to run out of Arthur, Ont. It relocated to Georgina in 2002 to be closer to Toronto customers. It runs from May to October, 9 a.m. to sunset, five days a week, during which about 1,000 flights take place.

Mary Kay lives about 60 metres from the airport. The noise had been tolerable, she says, but things changed in the summer of 2010 when a new, louder plane came into use. Now the noise and fumes are unbearable, she says.

"It is hard on the blood pressure when you get all wound up about something like this," says Kay, 76.

Adam Mabee, president of the parachute school, says he has yet to talk with the petitioners.

Of the 400 jumps conducted weekly, he says just a couple of skydivers miss their target, the airport. "Statistically, that's pretty low," he says. The worst damage happened two years ago to an awning, he says, and he paid for repairs.

In fact, he says, people whose property they land on are pretty friendly about it. "On a Sunday afternoon they'll be sitting out on a back porch sipping a drink and enjoying the show."

As for the offending aircraft, Mabee says it's a "big ugly plane great for jumping out of." He says he doesn't notice it being louder than others.

Still, as far as Kay is concerned, the airport was never meant to house such a large operation. "It's just a roar," she says. "You just grin and bear it and close the windows."

London calling for two marathoners

Canada hasn't had a participant in an Olympic marathon since Bruce Deacon in Sydney in 2000

Reid Coolsaet and Eric Gillis are London bound.

The Canadian duo booked their tickets to the 2012 Summer Games after bettering the Olympic standard of two hours 11 minutes 29 seconds yesterday at the Scotiabank Toronto Waterfront Marathon. Coolsaet finished third in the race with a personal-best time of 2:10.55 while Gillis was fourth, just finishing under the qualification mark with a time of 2:11.28.

"I can't believe it was by a second," Gillis said afterwards. "A marathon and one second?

"I could've just as easily been one second over. I feel really, really lucky to get that standard. I couldn't have done it this time last year, I just wasn't in the right frame of mind to go after that. Things are working out well now, things are clicking."

Coolsaet posted his time despite having to take a washroom break at about the 25-kilometre mark.

"It didn't take too much time but obviously I lost contact with the front pack," he said. "Luckily I had a pacer and clawed my way up the next three kilometres and got myself up with that front pack again."

Kenya's Kenneth Mungara won the race for the fourth straight year, posting a time of 2:09.51. Ethiopia's Shami Abdulahi Dawit was second.

Coolsaet narrowly missed the Canadian record en route to finishing third. The 32-year-old from Hamilton's time was just off the mark of 2:10.09 set by Jerome Drayton in 1975.

Drayton's 36-year-old record is the oldest on the Canadian track and field record books.

Controversial show doesn't make it to air

Lake Shore, Canada's reality TV answer to MTV's Jersey Shore, appeared with a bang.

A year ago, an online teaser for the show, featuring eight combative cast members labelled by ethnic background, drew massive buzz — and massive controversy from critics, who called the concept "racist."

This month, it died with a whimper. "I am sorry to say this, but it's over," reads an email from producer Maryam Rahimi, sent to the show's cast on Oct. 2. Networks declined to pick the show up, she writes.

Cast members, back at their day jobs, have mixed feelings about their short-lived ride as reality TV celebrities-in-waiting.

"What do I say to people now?" asks Salem Moussallam — billed on Lake Shore as "The Lebanese" — who runs a designer consignment shop on Queen Street West and says he auditioned to generate publicity for his business. "It's been really embarrassing."

KATE ALLEN/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Lake Shore would have sequestered cast members in a house together and broadcast the drama, supposedly generated by contestants clashing backgrounds. Its online teaser drew widespread condemnation by critics, including Bernie Farber, then CEO of the Canadian Jewish Congress.

Email

- Rahimi's email says producers pitched the show to three networks and "had a good connection" with Rogers.
- But an executive shakeup at the media giant brought in new people who hadn't heard of the show, Rahimi's email claims.
- Neither the network or Rahimi responded to a request for comment.

Many taking part in Occupy Canada movement brave crisp fall weather to camp out at parks

A day after kicking off their movement with loud voices and larger numbers, Canadians who gathered to decry corporate greed and social inequality spent yesterday nailing down their action plan for the coming week through long meetings with smaller groups.

By late yesterday afternoon the numbers of Occupy Canada participants had thinned, but many expected their ranks to swell today as the financial sectors they were protesting reopened.

"Today's going to be a major day for planning a large impact for Monday as a demonstration for (when) the stock exchange opens," said Niko Salassidis, 20, who set up the Occupy Toronto Facebook group.

"We plan to make a very large statement."

But Bryan Hyshka, 21, a volunteer at Edmonton's downtown camp site, added many of the protesters had to be at work today, so it was unclear how many would be available to continue the protest during the week. THE CANADIAN PRESS

No trouble yet

- The protests across Canada have been orderly so far, marked by cordial relations between police and demonstrators — a sharp contrast to the riots that erupted during last year's G20 demonstrations in Toronto and following Vancouver's Stanley Cup loss in June.

‘Banks got bailed out, we got sold out!’ chant New York protesters

Several hundred protesters in at least seven U.S. cities supporting the growing Occupy Wall Street movement were arrested over the weekend after refusing to obey police orders to leave public areas, including 175 people at a park in Chicago, where the arrests brought about a new phase of civil disobedience, organizers there said yesterday.

The arrests were mostly peaceful and came as somewhat of a contrast to earlier demonstrations, where protesters took care to follow laws in order to continue protesting Wall Street’s role in the financial crisis and other grievances about economic injustice.

Overseas, tens of thousands nicknamed “the indignant” marched in cities across Europe, as the protests that began in New York linked up with long-running demonstrations against government cost-cutting and failed financial policies in Europe. Protesters also turned out in Australia, Asia and South Africa. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cleaning up

- Rome’s mayor said yesterday that it could cost at least $1.4 million US to recover from the havoc wreaked by rioters who smashed windows, tore up sidewalks and torched vehicles after breaking off from a peaceful protest Saturday.
- The estimate came as cleanup continued in damaged neighbourhoods.
- The hundreds of rioters infiltrated a march by tens of thousands of demonstrators unhappy about the global financial crisis.

Libyans bulldoze Gadhafi's compound

Libyan revolutionary forces bulldozed the green walls surrounding Moammar Gadhafi's main Tripoli compound yesterday, saying it was time "to tear down this symbol of tyranny."

The sprawling, fortress-like compound known as Bab al-Aziziya has long been hated by Libyans who feared to even walk nearby during Gadhafi's more than four decades in power and its capture was seen as a turning point in the civil war as revolutionaries overran the capital in late August.

Ahmad Ghargory, commander of a revolutionary brigade, said the area will be turned into a public park accessible to all Libyans.

Already, the courtyard in front of Gadhafi's former house, which he used for many fiery speeches trying to rally supporters during the uprising, has been turned into a weekly market. Tripoli residents roam the premises as if at a museum, with vendors selling revolutionary flags and other souvenirs.

The compound was a main target for NATO airstrikes during the months leading to Gadhafi's ouster in late August.

Fighters forced their way into the area on Aug. 23 during the battle for the capital, jubilantly rampaging through the remnants of barracks, personal living quarters and offices seen as the most defining symbol of Gadhafi's nearly 42-year rule.

Yemen's war of words

President slams diplomats ahead of UN talks on transfer of power

Yemen's embattled President Ali Abdullah Saleh says foreign diplomats have been misled by the country's opposition and are conveying false information about the situation in Yemen.

Yesterday, Saleh's security forces opened fire on protesters, killing at least seven.

Over the past two days, government snipers killed 10 troops of renegade army general Ali Mohsen al-Ahmar, who defected and joined protests months ago, al-Ahmar said in a statement. He said they were killed near his compound and while protecting protesters in the capital, Sanaa.

In a separate statement, Al-Ahmar described Saleh as "the ignorant man who does nothing but killings."

Saleh clings to power despite more than nine months of street protests, inspired by popular uprisings in Tunisia and Egypt.

He has balked at signing a deal backed by his powerful neighbours and the U.S. in hopes of providing a smooth transition of power. Under the agreement, Saleh would resign and hand power to his vice-president in return for immunity from prosecution.

Palestinians see heroes, Israelis query swap

This week's planned Mideast prisoner swap is unleashing deep anguish in Israel and widespread elation in the Palestinian territories, laying bare the chasm of perspective dividing the two sides.

In Israel, the public is aghast at having to release convicted perpetrators of suicide bombings, deadly shootings and grisly kidnappings, although most understand that's what it takes to win freedom for a soldier captured during a routine patrol inside Israel at age 19.

The Palestinians, with equal vehemence, see the returnees as heroes who fought an occupier at a time of violence and argue moral equivalence between their actions and those of Israel's army.

These diverging narratives have been reflected in reactions to the deal, in which Israel will free some 1,027 Palestinian prisoners in exchange for Sgt. Gilad Schalit, captured by Gaza militants in a cross-border raid in June 2006.

Following initial joy over the deal, Israelis have begun to ask questions about the lopsided price their government is paying. Many argue that militants who killed Israelis could return to armed activity.

To address Israeli security concerns, Hamas agreed to have more than 200 West Bank-based prisoners deported to either the penned-in Gaza Strip or to a third country, where it would be much harder to carry out attacks.

In memory of King

- Monument first to a black man on the National Mall
- Sculpture carved by Chinese artist Lei Yixin

U.S. President Barack Obama saluted Martin Luther King Jr. as a man who "stirred our conscience" yesterday at the dedication of the new memorial to the slain civil rights leader on the National Mall in the U.S. capital.

Aretha Franklin, Stevie Wonder and poet Nikki Giovanni were among those who took part in the more than four-hour ceremony honouring King's legacy that drew thousands of people spanning all ages and races. King's children and other civil rights leaders spoke before the president, invoking the Nobel Peace Prize laureate's 1963 I Have a Dream speech in Washington.

The monument, situated between the Lincoln and Jefferson memorials, was 15 years in the making.

The sculpture of King with his arms crossed appears to emerge from a stone extracted from a mountain. The design was inspired by a line from the I Have a Dream speech: "Out of the mountain of despair, a stone of hope."

XM boss getting Sirius

Satellite radio company wants millions of car owners to pay up

New cars are already big business for satellite radio SiriusXM Canada, but CEO Mark Redmond is targeting millions of vehicles already on the road whose owners are listening to the radio for free.

"There's still probably 15-million-plus vehicles on the road that do not have any kind of satellite radio in them," Redmond said.

SiriusXM Canada recently achieved two million subscribers and Redmond believes consumers will pay to listen to commercial-free music, sports, news, talk and entertainment, despite free online and traditional radio choices.

The service is integrated in new vehicles through agreements with GM, Volkswagen, Chrysler, Ford, Mazda, Honda, BMW, Subaru and Porsche. But not all car owners opt to pay for the service once the trial period is over.

RBC Capital Markets analyst Drew McReynolds estimated about 40 per cent of customers will keep the satellite radio service by end of fiscal 2013.

CONNECT WITH NETRENOS

If you have ever searched for a contractor on the Internet you will understand where the genesis of NetRenos.com came from.

"NetRenos.com was an idea born during a conversation my business partner David Willms and I were having," says Sean Green, co-founder of Toronto-based NetRenos. "David is a contractor who works in landscaping and snow removal and he was frustrated with websites that catered to contractors because they were difficult to navigate."

For Green, with a background in software engineering, an idea began forming — a website free for customers to connect with qualified, trusted contractors.

The connecting process is fairly simple. "We think leafing through the Yellow Pages or asking a friend for a referral is an archaic way of finding a contractor," says Green. "So, NetRenos.com lets the average homeowner just 'post a job' and sit back and wait for licensed and insured contractors to contact them. We save the average contractor and tradesperson money because they no longer have to advertise the way they used to. We do that for them. It is as simple as the homeowner posts a job and the contractor checks his smartphone or web profile for the new lead."

4 EASY STEPS

NetRenos.com promises an easy, four-step process to find a contractor.

1. Post your project
2. Receive quotes
3. Hire a tradesperson
4. Leave feedback

"In our business we have two customers to satisfy — the homeowner and the contractor," says NetRenos.com co-founder Sean Green. "One needs business and the other is looking to hire and we marry the two."

ISTOCKPHOTO/THINKSTOCK

While NetRenos has wide appeal to virtually any customer, Green believes it specifically targets three kinds of consumers: The single, professional homeowner who doesn't have the time or interest to renovate themselves; the couple or family, who want the most value for their money and time; and the mature consumer who prefers to have a professional to call on.

As Green notes, each of these customers is looking for the same thing.

"They all have different priorities but the same goal," he says. "They want a website that is user-friendly and easy to navigate to make the process of renovation simple and efficient."

LOVE WHAT YOU DO

CONSIDER THESE POINTS BEFORE STARTING VENTURE

JUPITERIMAGES/BRAND X PICTURES/THINKSTOCK

Small and medium-size businesses account for 99.8 per cent of all Canadian companies and employ more than 60 per cent of private sector workers.

If you are thinking of launching a small business, here are 10 points to consider:

1 CHOOSE SOMETHING YOU LOVE. You are going to spend countless hours starting and growing your business. It's vital to love your work, whether it's selling insurance, running a photography studio or cutting hair.

2 SAVE MONEY FIRST. Don't start your business just using loans from family, friends and banks; it can take years to turn a profit before you can repay them. Instead, save as much money as possible upfront, even if it extends your launch date.

3 RESEARCH, RESEARCH, RESEARCH. You will need to become an expert on your industry, products and services. To do so, join related industry or professional associations.

4 DRAFT A BUSINESS PLAN. For most small businesses, the most important parts of this plan are the break-even analysis, a profit-and-loss forecast and a cash-flow projection. It also helps project start-up costs and marketing strategies.

5 DON'T QUIT YOUR DAY JOB. If there is no conflict of interest and you can manage it, keep your full-time job while you lay the foundation of your business. You might as well enjoy getting regular paycheques and paid vacations as long as you can.

6 FIND CLIENTS/CUSTOMERS FIRST. Start lining them up before you have officially launched. Network, offer a few free services or products — you can't start marketing too soon.

7 HIRE GOOD STAFF. Choose outstanding employees, then create a happy and stable workplace so they will want to perform well and stick around.

8 EMBRACE SOCIAL MEDIA. At the very least, companies should have a website that describes who they are and their services and products. It's becoming de rigueur for businesses to be on Facebook and Twitter, too.

9 ADOPT A CAUSE. Consumers appreciate businesses that support good causes. Everyone wins: The customers; the charities; and the businesses.

10 PAY YOUR BILLS AND TAXES ON TIME. In doing so, you will gain trust and build a positive credit profile. For small businesses, reputation is everything. – Jane Doucet

RBC ROYAL BANK OFFERS CONVENIENT OPTIONS TO HELP ENTREPRENEURS

Running your own business puts you in control like never before. It can mean long hours and a steep learning curve, especially in the first year. But there are lots of convenient options you can take advantage of from Day 1 to save you time.

If you're like most aspiring business owners you started a business around something you love to do and are great at. While you are an expert in what you sell, chances are you're not an expert in running a business — at least not yet. You need to find the resources and people to help you. At the same time, you need tools to help your business run efficiently and reliably. RBC Royal Bank can help with both.

With the largest network of branches and bank ATMs in Canada, RBC Royal Bank makes it easy to access your money when you need it most. And if you're looking for advice, the RBC Royal Direct award-winning call centre is staffed 24 hours a day with specially trained small business advisers that can help you in about 180 languages, answering both your business and personal banking questions on the same call.

Make your business leaner and meaner — and simpler — from the start by doing your banking online. Today's entrepreneurs pay their bills, taxes, employees and suppliers electronically. They lose no time due to travel or mail delays, and they write fewer cheques, reducing their risk of fraud and building stronger relationships with suppliers.

BUSINESS TIPS, VIDEOS ONLINE

Starting a business can be a lot more work than a full-time job. Everybody knows that. But not everybody knows how to make a business run well. With RBC Royal Bank's online Advice Centre, you can learn.

Visit rbcadvicecentre.com to access short articles, guides and videos offering information that matters to entrepreneurs. Find out how to draft a business plan and manage your cash; learn the pros and cons of renting or buying space, and a lot more. You can watch and read inspiring stories, too — about men and women with dreams like yours, who made them a reality.

RBC Royal Bank small business customers can do all this and more. They can keep track of their businesses by accessing account information and statements online. They can manage multiple accounts, including loans, investments and credit cards. They can download account information and import it directly into their accounting software. And they can do it all on their own schedule. You can, too.

Give yourself every advantage to grow your business successfully.

You know it's worth it.

RIM facing uphill battle over tablets

Gaining ground in the Apple-dominated tablet computer market has been akin to pushing a rock up a mountain for Research in Motion.

And there's a hill they're at risk of dying on: Parliament Hill.

Political Ottawa remains addicted to RIM's signature BlackBerry smartphone, but when it comes to which tablet computers to adopt, Apple's iPad is the favoured son.

Conservative MP Peter Braid is one of the few, if not the only, MPs who use RIM's Playbook instead. It's an obvious choice, as Braid represents Waterloo, Ont., where RIM is based.

Treasury Board president Tony Clement, an avid tech buff who uses both Apple and RIM products, is among those not writing off RIM, but acknowledges they have a fight on their hands.

Unlike the BlackBerry, which is standard issue for MPs and staffers, there's no government-wide standard on tablet computers. If MPs choose to get one, the make is up to them.

▶ David Holland, president and CEO of Torstar.

Torstar Corp., the parent company of the Toronto Star, has boosted its interest in Metro, the free newspaper chain that publishes in cities across Canada.

Torstar announced Friday it has paid $51.5 million to increase its stake to 90 per cent in Free Daily News Group, which publishes Metro in Toronto, Vancouver, Ottawa, Calgary, Edmonton, Winnipeg and London, Ont. Under a separate joint venture with Transcontinental Media G.P., it also publishes in Halifax.

"We see this as a terrific opportunity to continue to build this growing, national franchise," said Torstar president and CEO David Holland in an interview. "For the past decade, it's been a strong medium, attractive to both readers and advertisers. We think that will continue."

Holland added the Metro papers, which have a combined daily readership of more than one million, complement the rest of Torstar's media assets including Star Media Group, Metroland and other digital properties.

"This is exciting news," said Bill McDonald, president of Metro English Canada. "Metro has carved a significant space in the national media landscape, and through the enhanced support of Torstar, our majority shareholder, we're looking forward to even greater growth."

According to the most recent NADbank figures for fall 2010 and spring 2011, the read yesterday readership among adults in the Greater Toronto area was 966,000 for the Toronto Star and 495,000 for the Toronto edition of Metro.

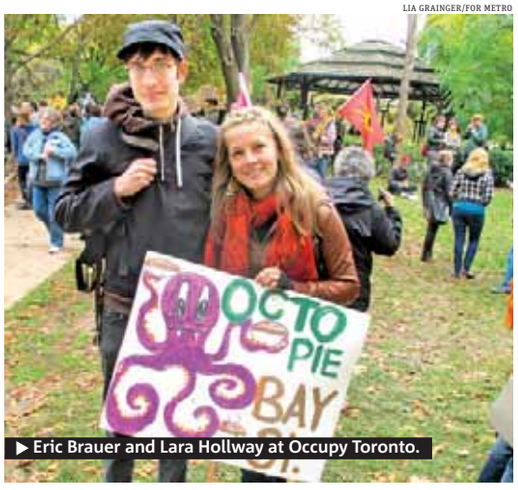
LIA GRAINGER/FOR METRO



▶ Eric Brauer and Lara Hollway at Occupy Toronto.

WHAT ARE WE FIGHTING FOR?

URBAN COMPASS

LIA GRAINGER
METRO TORONTO

A common criticism of the Occupy Wall Street movement has been its apparent lack of a single, unified goal. As Occupy Toronto set up camp in St. James Park Saturday afternoon, protesters followed New York's lead, advocating for a wide range of causes. This freedom and inclusiveness, many said, was the point of the movement. And while the changes being championed were diverse, a common thread among nearly all in attendance was the call for a more equal and just society, and the desire to be heard.

I spent the day asking protesters why they had decided to join the occupation. Here is what five of them said:

"Just ask me about my student loan. It's kind of like a game of Monopoly: Someone wins and everyone else loses." – Liz Farge, 35, art-gallery employee.

"I'm here because I have three sons. They've worked their entire lives for companies, without taking unemployment insurance, welfare or anything from the people. And yet they still can't buy a house. There's something wrong in a system when men work for 20 to 30 years and they can't buy a house. It's a fundamental right of Canadians." – Shari Drinkwater, 65, retired journalist.

"I've seen a lot of my friends — university-educated people — desperately looking for work for a long time now. People have gone $20,000 into student debt for nothing, for a job waiting tables." – Eric Brauer, 30, ESL instructor.

"I believe in the power of community. I think the way our society has gone, we've allowed the power of our decisions to be given to hierarchical structures that don't reflect the majority of people. I think this movement is showing that we can, from a place of non-hierarchical consensus, create really powerful protests against the current system." — Lara Hollway, 24, student.

"The library creates room and space so that, rather than just shout angrily, people can become informed about the more complex issues that are the stimuli of this entire movement." – Orest Pazuniak, 22, student, and an organizer of the Occupy Toronto library.

Worth mentioning

California's largest industry group for doctors is calling for the legalization of marijuana even as it maintains that the drug has few proven health benefits.

Trustees of the California Medical Association adopted the new stance at its annual meeting in Anaheim, according to a Los Angeles Times report.

Dr. Donald Lyman, the physician who wrote the group's new policy, said doctors are increasingly frustrated by the state's medical marijuana law, which allows use with a doctor's recommendation. Physicians are put in the uncomfortable position of having to decide whether to recommend a drug that's illegal under federal law, Lyman said.

"It is an open question whether cannabis is useful or not," he told the newspaper. "That question can only be answered once it is legalized and more research is done."

The CMA acknowledges health risks associated with marijuana use and proposes regulation similar to alcohol and tobacco.

Product Hailed by Doctors as the Solution for Back Pain

Doctor developed decompression belt that significantly reduces back pain. Dr.Michael Ho announced, he is giving 50% off to all readers of the Metro Newspaper. Due to the Fall rush, each household is limited to only 2 belts.

Save money and help relieve back pain: This week only. Get clinically proven back decompression belt for 50% off

By Marc Charron - Health and Lifestyle

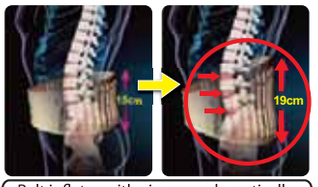
Back pain affects 80% of North Americans. It can also rob you of your happiness, where getting out of bed becomes a painful reminder of your bad back. While pills provide temporary relief, the condition can reoccur. The reason is because pills mask the symptoms and do not target the cause of the pain. Other treatments cost thousands of dollars or have substantial health risks. "That's why most people end up "living" with their bad back" - says Dr. Michael Ho.

Dr. Michael Ho is a doctor with over 20 years of clinical experience specializing in treating the cause of chronic back pain, including Scoliosis, Spinal Stenosis and Herniated / Bulging discs. His belief is to treat the cause of the problem so that patients get long term relief, earning him international recognition for his patient care and expertise.

"Many people have back pain due to spinal disc compression. This can result in back pain, which if left untreated, can lead to more serious conditions."

DRUG-FREE
DR-HO'S Decompression Belt will help relieve your back pain, naturally without the side-effects.

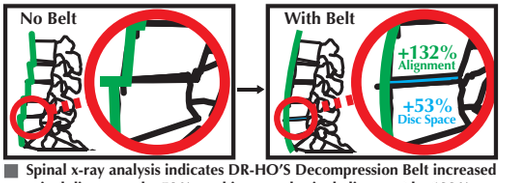
Dr. Ho has developed a back supporting decompression belt that can be used at home, allowing you to help relieve your back pain, while saving time and money. Dr.Ho's brand new Decompression Belt is endorsed by medical professionals and customers that have suffered with long-term, chronic back pain. "I have used many modalities to treat my patients, but nothing is as effective as the decompression belt. To effectively treat someone with back pain, the patient must receive treatment everyday for 6 - 8 weeks. People cannot afford the time or money to visit the doctor everyday. Therefore, your health suffers. I developed this belt because patients need a device they can use at home. By treating themselves daily, it will speed up recovery time and increase the overall effectiveness of the treatment. This belt can help protect and treat your back," says Dr.Ho.



Belt inflates with air, expands vertically, gently stretching, tractioning and relieving lower back pain

Dr.Michael Ho treats patient suffering with herniated disc, degenerated disc and over 10 years of back pain.

DR-HO'S Decompression Belt expands to help decompress the spine to provide support and help relieve the pain. The belt will help relieve your pain in as little as 20 minutes, even if you've suffered with back pain for many years - you can even wear the belt while doing activities. As an exclusive Metro Special, Dr.Ho has agreed to give the first 100 customers 50% off as well as include a free Instant Heat Therapy Pad to help soothe and relax tense, achy and stiff muscles. The Decompression Belt will help relieve your back pain safely without the use of drugs. You don't have to live with your back pain any longer."



Spinal x-ray analysis indicates DR-HO'S Decompression Belt increased spinal disc space by 53%, and improved spinal alignment by 132%.

Patient case study result: Improved alignment & disc space
Increased mobility, less pinching on nerves & significant pain relief

New Innovation for Back Pain Sufferers

Imagine living without back pain.
Imagine doing everything you wanted
Imagine being "you" again.
Now you can with DR-HO'S Back Belt!

"Every patient with back pain should be wearing this belt because it gives you core strength and support in your spine, and a traction effect for great pain relief. The great thing is that patients with chronic back pain can wear this belt and get their life back. They can feel more confident, be more active, and do things th at they love doing."

"This belt feels like the weight is taken off of you. Pain pills only mask the pain. With the belt I can be pain free. I have a grandson, who loves to be picked up. But you don't realize how much pressure that puts on your back. With my belt, I don't have to worry about picking him up!"

Belt expands to help stretch & relieve back pain

DR-HO'S Belt helps to relieve:

- Chronic & acute back pain
- Pain from degene rative & herniated discs
- Leg pain related to degene rative disc
- Trouble sleeping due to back pain
- Aching back from sitting, driving, or lifting

The belt is very comfortable and it helps to take the stress off my lower back. I feel that I now have better posture. I can see this being used by people with ch ronic back pain and its so easy to do. You just strap on the belt, inflate and you can feel it work right away because it takes the stress off the lower back. You've got nothing to lose if you suffer from back pain. Definitely this is worth trying!

"Usually if I lay down this long, my back would be killing me. I have suffered with back pain for twenty years, but with this belt, I can go for long walks again."

Gaga does Marilyn

Lady Gaga channels Marilyn Monroe at concert honouring Bill Clinton's foundation

Lady Gaga enjoyed her "first real Marilyn moment" with former President Bill Clinton.

The envelope-pushing pop superstar was one of several musicians who performed Saturday night at the Hollywood Bowl during a concert celebrating the 10th anniversary of Clinton's foundation, which has sought to improve global health, strengthen economies worldwide, promote healthier childhoods and protect the environment for the past decade.

"I always wanted to have one, and I was hoping that it didn't involve pills and a strand of pearls," Gaga joked.

Emerging from atop an all-white treehouse, Lady Gaga sported a wavy blonde 'do and red lips like Marilyn Monroe, who famously crooned Happy Birthday, Mr. President to President John F. Kennedy in 1962. Lady Gaga similarly serenaded Clinton and changed several of her lyrics to reference him, including swapping the title of Bad Romance for Bill Romance.

"I thought, 'My God. I get Lady Gaga, and I will have a heart attack celebrating my 65th birthday,'" Clinton later said.

Clinton, who turned 65 on Aug. 19 but celebrated his birthday at a posh Hollywood party Friday night, sat between wife Hillary and daughter Chelsea in the front row throughout Saturday's event at the outdoor venue set against the Hollywood Hills. Other famous attendees included Maria Bello, Ashton Kutcher, Jason Segel, Ellen DeGeneres, Colin Farrell and Chevy Chase.

▶ At a performance celebrating the 10th anniversary of Bill Clinton's foundation, Lady Gaga serenaded Clinton like Marilyn Monroe did to President John F. Kennedy in 1962.

"I am the only person in history who got to be President and then had a post-presidential birthday party attended by both Lady Gaga and the Secretary of State," Clinton joked on stage. "I want to thank Hillary because we met 40 years ago this year. When I met her, she was already doing the kind of work you see here long before it was cool."

Other performers included Motown legend Stevie Wonder, country star Kenny Chesney, Toronto rapper K'Naan, Colombian crooner Juanes and R&B singer Usher.

Bono and The Edge of U2 closed the concert with a mostly acoustic set that included such tunes as Desire, One and Sunday Bloody Sunday, which Bono sang directly to Clinton.

The duo — who were accompanied by a string quartet and Edge's laptop — closed with Miss Sarajevo. Bono tackled the operatic part of the tune originally sung by the late Luciano Pavarotti.

Clinton himself is no stranger to performing. The saxophone-playing politician memorably belted out Heartbreak Hotel when he visited Arsenio Hall's show during his 1992 presidential campaign. Clinton didn't pick up the instrument Saturday night, despite a plea from Lady Gaga, who informed him: "I wish you were playing sax with me tonight, baby."

Walking Dead alive again

Apocalypse now: hit zombie show back for a second season on AMC

Just down the road from a tiny country church in rural Georgia, the apocalypse has already arrived.

A band of scrappy survivors is fighting the undead, camping in the woods in hopes of outrunning the hordes of zombies roaming around. Few of them have made it, and at any moment they could be eaten alive and turned into one of the monsters that haunt them day and night.

It's just another day on the set of The Walking Dead, the hit AMC series that started its second season yesterday with 13 horrifying new episodes.

Based on the popular comic book of the same name by writer Robert Kirkman, the show is about life after the zombie apocalypse.

5.3 M

The AMC drama drew more than 5.3 million viewers on its Halloween premiere last year, and got just as many viewers for the following week — not to mention sales of Robert Kirkman's award-winning graphic novel have steadily increased since the show was announced last year.

"The show is not about how gory we can make it," said co-executive producer Greg Nicotero, the show's special effects makeup guru who also directs this season.

"We want it to be shocking. We want to remind the audience of the world we're in — that world is brutal and savage and raw. But it's also about survival."

As always, the show follows the first rule of the zombie genre: No one on the show has ever heard of a zombie, calling them "walkers" instead.

They spend each episode learning the tricks of surviving the undead: avoiding loud noises that will draw their attention, using rotting carcasses to mask the smell of the living and finding creative new ways to kill the monsters stalking them.

Dead began six months of filming in and around Atlanta in June, boasting plots full of hair-raising new zombie encounters and heart-stopping action.

The first season — which was just six episodes — ended with the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention in Atlanta blowing up and leaving the group with little hope of finding a cure to the virus that creates the zombies.

Definitely not the Oscars

Harry Potter, Pee Wee Herman and Darth Vader among honourees at Spike TV's Scream Awards

Heroes and villains from the worlds of horror, fantasy and sci-fi shared the stage at Spike TV's annual Scream Awards.

More television event than traditional awards ceremony, the Scream Awards were presented in an amphitheatre built on the Universal Studios backlot just for the occasion.

The Saturday night show was as much about how the awards were presented as who got them, but for starters, the top honourees were Harry Potter, Darth Vader, Nicolas Cage, Pee Wee Herman and Robert Downey, Jr.

Resembling a psychedelic circus, one side of the stage was a life-sized dollhouse populated by costumed characters; the other a staircase topped by a giant keyhole, and in the middle was a lake that lit up with fire.

Fans picked the night's winners and also filled the makeshift theatre for the two and a half hour presentation, which is set to air tomorrow as a two-hour special on Spike TV and VH1.

Potter took the night's top prize. The eight-part film franchise was named the Ultimate Scream, which awards presenter Chloe Grace Moretz described as "the most awesome, most rocking thing that the universe has ever seen."

Audience members were given glow sticks before the winner was announced, and when Potter star Daniel Radcliffe accepted the prize by video from New York, fans there were waving the same lights.

Co-star Ralph Fiennes, who played Lord Voldemort, also appeared by video to accept an award for favourite villain.

Vader, though, won the Ultimate Villain award. Star Wars creator George Lucas presented the Sith Lord with his prize.

Vader, who accepted the award personally, said he's found it difficult to concentrate on his work recently because he's constantly "living in fear of how George Lucas is going to digitally enhance you for the next DVD."

Meanwhile, Lucas announced that the first Star Wars film converted to 3D will open in February.

Show highlights

The show was punctuated with circus-worthy acts such as aerialists, fire dancers and contortionists who performed inside floating plastic balls.

- The most anticipated movie was The Dark Knight Rises, and stars Anne Hathaway, Gary Oldman and Joseph Gordon-Levitt took the stage to thank fans for the honour.
- Bradley Cooper accepted an award for Limitless and J.J. Abrams was on hand to take a sci-fi prize for Super 8.

Launching from Rock, landing on air

Alec Baldwin sets sights on radio show as role on hit comedy series approaches its end

Alec Baldwin is preparing for life after 30 Rock, working with New York public radio on an interview show that will be available via podcast starting Oct. 24.

The first interview posted will be with actor Michael Douglas, who talks about watching Glee with his young daughter. Other interviews to follow will be with Republican campaign strategist Ed Rollins, reality-show celebrity Kris Kardashian Jenner, comic Chris Rock, actress Kathleen Turner, author Erica Jong and veteran talk-show host Dick Cavett, station WNYC said Thursday.

Baldwin said that he's been exploring other things to do, knowing that his small-screen life as crazed corporate executive Jack Donaghy is heading toward its end.

Baldwin has won Emmys for his comic portrayal of a TV network boss. He said he likes to use his spare time to satisfy the need to do other things.

His mixture of guests on the radio show will take in several fields, although he leans toward fellow entertainers. Baldwin said he's particularly interested in talking with show-biz veterans about the directions their careers have taken and how they keep the juices flowing.

He's an admitted "public radio junkie" who has filled in on the air for New York's WNYC and also helped with fund drives.

After his on-air work as a substitute host for Kurt Andersen, both Baldwin and WNYC were interested in doing something more, said Dean Cappello, senior vice-president for programming at New York public radio.

"Alec is one of our hometown guys," he said.

New interviews will be available about once a week. Cappello said he expects they will eventually be made into an on-air radio show, but those plans aren't set yet.

"They think I'm talented. I'm pulling the wool over everybody's eyes and they're paying me for it. It's thrilling."
ALEC BALDWIN

Baldwin said his 30 Rock contract ends after the upcoming sixth season, which will begin with Donaghy "in agony" because his wife is being held captive in North Korea. There's a possibility the show might be extended another year, but he said he's not sure whether he wants to do it.

"I might," he said. "I wouldn't want to prevent them from having another year, because they're all my friends and they've been good to me. Maybe I would do a piece of the year. But I really do want to move on to other things."

Still, no one appreciates the run he's been on better than Baldwin.

"The life I have now is not going to get any better," he said. "I have a great job. Everybody thinks I'm funny. I'm fooling everybody. They think I'm talented. I'm pulling the wool over everybody's eyes and they're paying me for it. It's thrilling." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Lenny Kravitz has released his ninth album titled Black and White America.

Black and White a splash of colour

The new album from Lenny Kravitz tackles race in America Lots of big names featured on his 9th CD

Lenny Kravitz, who was born to a black mother and white father, didn't recognize skin colour in his own home as a child.

"I grew up in a house full of every colour," he recalls.

Things changed when he went to elementary school.

"I didn't know anything about problems until I went to first grade and it was brought to my attention," the rock singer and guitarist said. "I knew my father looked different than my mother, but I didn't know that that meant anything. ... I had no idea that it was an issue."

On his latest album, Black and White America, 47-year-old Kravitz tackles that "issue" as well as what his parents experienced as an interracial couple in 1960s New York.

(Kravitz's mother starred as Helen Willis in the hit television show The Jeffersons in the 1970s and '80s.)

The Grammy winner's ninth album, which debuted at No. 17 on the Billboard 200 albums chart last month, was recorded over a two-year period in the Bahamas and Paris.

The album

There are several big names attached to this album.

▶ Who is on it? Drake is featured on this album and appears on the song Sunflower. Jay-Z is also making an appearance and he shows up on the sure to be monster hit Boongie Drop — a song about full-figured women.

What stories do you remember hearing from your parents?

They would walk down the street (and) people would spit on them. My father would take my mother to a hotel on holiday and they would say, 'No prostitutes allowed at the hotel' — very disgusting things. My father lost his side of the family 'til I was born. It took them a minute to get it together. But in essence ... none of that bothered them. They were in love and they wanted to be together and that was that.

Talk about the title track on this album.

It's a very special song to me and it's obviously got a lot to do with who I am. It's my story. It's everything I knew growing up. It's my parents' story — being an interracial couple growing up in the time of the civil rights movement. And it's the story of today — what we're going through, dealing with race and the fact that we have an African-American president.

How do you think Barack Obama is doing as our president?

It's a tough gig. I think he's done a lot of great things and I think that some things are challenging and difficult for him. But I don't know how it works.

Big Boi settles drug case, avoids jail time

Rapper to undergo three months of drug testing as part of deal Will also participate in community service

DON ARNOLD/GETTY IMAGES

Big Boi

Grammy-winning OutKast rapper Big Boi has reached a deal on Florida drug charges that allows him to avoid jail time.

Big Boi appeared in a Miami courtroom Thursday as prosecutors outlined the deal that includes three months of drug testing, community service and $2,000 in donations to charities. The 36-year-old rapper's real name is Antwan Patton.

He was arrested getting off a cruise ship in August when a K-9 dog alerted to drugs Big Boi was carrying. The substances included ecstasy, a cigarette roller with marijuana residue and the ecstasy ingredient MDMA.

Big Boi had faced two felony drug charges. Prosecutors say if he remains drug-free after three months of testing, those charges will be dismissed.

The Atlanta-based group OutKast has won six Grammys and made six platinum-plus albums, including Speakerboxxx/The Love Below. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Future is funny for Lopez

Comedian George Lopez is hard at work creating a new family sitcom

JAE C. HONG/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Comedian George Lopez is creating a new sitcom where he will play a father and husband.

Comedian George Lopez said he is creating a new family-orientated sitcom where he will play a father and husband, vowing to return to television less than two months after TBS cancelled his late-night show Lopez Tonight.

Lopez told The Associated Press his now untitled show "will be the opposite" of George Lopez, the syndicated television sitcom that aired on ABC from 2002 to 2007 and made him a household name.

He also plans to star in his third live HBO standup special next year, his first since 2009.

Viewership for his late-night show on TBS declined heavily in its second year.

He says the show suffered after he lost his 11 p.m. ET time slot to Conan O'Brien. He said TBS' plan was for Lopez to go on after O'Brien at midnight and win over O'Brien's young viewers.

Instead, Lopez's total viewership dropped 40 per cent in its second year, from an average of 910,000 nightly viewers to 543,000. By August, the audience had dropped to 391,000.

The comedian said it is unfortunate his show was cancelled because there are few minority hosts on late-night television.

"I was heartbroken. Late-night talk show needs diversity," actress Eva Longoria told the AP of the cancellation. She attended a charity gala with Lopez in Las Vegas Saturday night.

Lopez, who often lampoons his Mexican heritage and upbringing, said there will not be a grandmother figure on his new show.

On George Lopez, Lopez often verbally sparred with an actress who played his mother.

He promised he would tease all of his co-workers if the show is picked up for TV next fall.

"Whoever is my relative, I will not be nice to them," he said.

Rick Ross suffers seizures: Report

Rapper Rick Ross was reportedly hospitalized in Alabama after suffering two medical scares in six hours that required planes to be diverted.

The first scare came Friday afternoon as Ross was on a Delta Air Lines flight from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., to Memphis, Tenn., where Ross was scheduled to appear at a University of Memphis basketball event that night. The plane returned to Florida after Ross suffered an unspecified medical problem. He was treated at a Fort Lauderdale hospital, and he even tweeted afterward: "Memphis here I come."

Top of his game

- The Miami-based Ross gained fame with his husky voice and lyrics that spotlighted the grimier side of Miami life. He has become one of rap's most popular figures in recent years.

But after Ross hopped a Memphis-bound private jet, it made an unscheduled landing in Birmingham, Ala., because the 34-year-old singer experienced another medical problem, Memphis basketball coach Josh Pastner told a crowd at the Friday night event where Ross was to appear.

"On his way to Memphis," Pastner said, "he had to make another emergency landing, in Birmingham. He got really sick again, and they had to rush him to the emergency room."

WMC-TV in Memphis reported that Ross suffered a second medical seizure and had been hospitalized. The news station said the University of Alabama-Birmingham Hospital would not comment on his condition.

Ross is known for his hits such as Aston Martin Music, B.M.F. (Blowing Money Fast) and Hustlin'.

The death rattles of Ashton and Demi's marriage?

Moving truck spotted outside the couple's home Sources speculate that Ashton might me movin' out

Rumours of an impending split between Ashton Kutcher and Demi Moore jumped into overdrive late last week when a moving truck was seen pulling up to the couple's Los Angeles home, according to Us Weekly.

The moving company, Wetzel & Sons, would not divulge any information about the job.

While it's unclear which of the two might be vacating the premises, sources speculate Kutcher would be the one kicked to the curb.

"Demi is humiliated," a source says.

"She loves him, but can't forgive him for the embarrassment he has caused."

Whitney has a 'diva' moment

Whitney Houston reportedly lost her cool on a recent flight when she refused to fasten her seatbelt before takeoff, according to Us Weekly.

Witnesses claim a shouting match ensued, with Houston eventually insisting that the flight attendant fasten the seatbelt for her.

Bradley Cooper and J.Lo may be secretly dating

Bradley Cooper stepped out recently with a woman who looked a lot like Jennifer Lopez, though she was going to great lengths to shield herself from photographers, according to Us Weekly.

A source close to Lopez says it was in fact the American Idol judge meeting up with the Hangover star, getting together again after a dinner date in New York last month.

"After their date in New York, Bradley and Jennifer stayed in touch," the source says. "She does like his attention, and it makes her feel good that he seems so into her. She has a fun time with Bradley and he makes her laugh." METRO

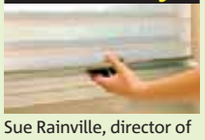
Child safety



Sue Rainville, director of marketing for window fashions manufacturer Hunter Douglas, offers tips to make your home safe.

- Use window guards on all windows above the first floor. Screens aren't strong enough to stop falls.
- To keep windows open for ventilation, install locks that limit the opening's size.
- For sliding glass doors, apply bright stickers to alert kids to the presence of glass.

Sucking – sucks?

A thumb or pacifier may bring peace to your household but what are the implications?

EMMA E. FORREST
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

METRO WORLD NEWS

You've swaddled and shushed, but your baby's still howling. So you reach for a pacifier, or encourage thumb sucking. Is this OK?

Thumb versus pacifier use is an issue that divides parents. Thumb sucking is a natural behaviour. Children have been observed thumb sucking in the womb. Pacifier proponents believe keeping your baby calm when he or she is crying for no reason is better for psychological wellbeing.

There are genuine positives: Pacifier use is believed to reduce the prevalence of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome. You can also control when your baby uses it (which you can't do with a thumb) and when it's time to end non-nutritive sucking (NNS) — as it's termed — a pacifier can be thrown out.

The downside is that if your baby becomes dependent on it, you'll be up throughout the night to pop it back in. Later, it becomes a barrier to speech.

So while this sanity-saver seems like a good option, NNS can have implications for growth. "The greater the amount of time during the day that the child engages in non-nutritive sucking, the greater the forces that the growing bones and associated soft tissues will be exposed to," explains Dr. Sarah Hulland, a paediatric dentist. "In turn (this) can cause a change in the relationship of the oro-motor complex, so how the mouth is shaped, how the dentition inter-relates, how the lips can close, how the tongue behaves in the mouth (can be affected)."

Hulland warns that soother sucking should be limited to settling your baby. "Sucking on soothers can lead to significant restructuring of the oro-facial complex, which usually manifests itself as an open bite where the front teeth don't meet. This can lead to difficulties closing the lips and a tongue thrust."

In response, pacifier producers are creating more ergonomic soothers. But getting kids to stop can be tricky. "The easiest way to stop pacifier sucking is to keep soother-access to essential-use only," explains Hulland. "And for thumb suckers, remove thumb from a child's mouth or replace it with an alternative comforter."

A wow-provoking dinner starter

Seared Shrimp Tortilla Bites boast hint of sweetness

Ingredients:
- 1 lb (500 g) large peeled uncooked shrimp (about 24)
- 4 tsp (20 mL) olive oil
- 2 sliced garlic cloves
- Pinches salt
- 2 tbsp (30 mL) chopped coriander

Peanut sauce
- 1/3 cup (75 mL) peanut butter
- 2 tbsp (30 mL) lime juice
- 2 to 3 tsp (10 to 15 mL) hot sauce
- 1 tbsp (15 mL) soy sauce
- 2 tsp (10 mL) finely grated peeled ginger
- 1 large garlic clove, minced
- 1 ripe but firm mango
- 24 mini scoop shaped tortilla chips
- Garnish: coriander leaves

Preparation:

1 If using frozen shrimp, thaw and pat dry well. Discard tail shell, if still on. Heat oil in a large frying pan over medium-high heat. Add shrimp, garlic and salt. Stir-fry until shrimp is pink, about 4 minutes. Toss with coriander. Refrigerate to cool or cover and refrigerate overnight.

2 Stir peanut butter with lime juice, hot sauce, soy sauce, ginger and garlic. Stir in a little water if needed until a thick sauce-like consistency. Sauce can be made a couple of days in advance then covered and refrigerated.

3 Peel mango and cut fruit from pit. Dice into 1/2-inch (1.5 cm) pieces. Just before serving, assemble bites. Spoon about 1 to 1-1/2 tsp (5 to 7 mL) peanut sauce into tortilla scoop. Top with a shrimp, mango piece and coriander leaf if using. Repeat with remaining shrimp. You may have a bit of sauce left-over depending on the number of shrimp you have.

Let the money rain down

Turn your humble rain barrel into a cash saving device Conserving your water has never been easier

BEN KNIGHT

ISTOCK PHOTOS

▶ Turn your traditional rain barrel into cash.

Drip by drip, drop by drop, water is getting more expensive. It's tempting to wonder, sometimes, why we are paying so much for something that regularly falls out of the sky for free.

Not that purification, pumps and infrastructure aren't hugely important. But aren't there ways to use all that water that simply hits your house anyway? Yes, and so we turn to the humble rain barrel.

"Catching rain water for your garden is fun," says Bob Burgess, principal of Gulf Islands Rainwater Connection Ltd. on Thetis Island, B.C.

"And it gives you the best possible water for your garden."

A simple, low-tech device can fill up 10 to 15 times in a typical Canadian year.

The water's not drinkable, but it's cheaper — and cleaner — for lawns, gardens and plants than the more expensive treated water that gushes from your hose or sprinkler.

And if you feel like investing in a more complex system, rain water can also be used indoors.

"The building code — now — allows it to be used for toilets without purification," Burgess says.

"That's a nice way to save money — and water — 12 months a year."

That requires a tank, underground in most of Canada, where it can be protected from freezing.

"The underground tanks are more expensive. You're probably spending $2,000 on the tank, and another $1,000 on the pump. By and large, you're looking at more like $4,000 to $5,000. And that depends on how easy it is. If it's a brand new house, it would be really easy."

Potable water systems are available, converting rain into drinking water. But they run in the $25,000 to $35,000 cost range — far more than most Canadians would ever be willing to spend. But there's an easier, cheaper side to this. Just the simple act of putting a rain barrel under your downspout heightens awareness of water conservation, making it easier to find other effective, every-day ways of cutting consumption.

"That's exactly the idea of the rain barrel, is that it gets people interested," Burgess says. "Here's a line: It's raining, it's pouring, the wise man is storing."

Pursuit of success was no cakewalk

Rosalind Chan's turning point came when she traded in her corporate cubicle for a career as a cake artisan

TURNING POINT

TERESA KRUZE
LIFE@METRONEWS.CA

Rosalind Chan is an international superstar in the cake decorating world.

As a new immigrant from Malaysia she gave up a corporate career in Canada to go after her passion for cake artistry full-time. To give up her big salary and start her own company was a hard step to take.

"I'd worked all my life and to suddenly not have a salary or a job was nerve-racking for me."

Chan went back to Malaysia and started a cake decorating teaching centre that quickly grew to two locations.

"Today we have one of the biggest cake decorating institutes and training centres in Malaysia."

On the heels of her success she opened her Canadian shop called Sugar Tiers in Markham, Ont., and was thrilled to be inducted into the Wilton Cake Decorating Hall of Fame.

"I want to expand in Canada and branch out to more countries. I want to share my passion and give back to society by teaching in women's shelters. But my biggest goal is to write my first book."

For Rosalind Chan, that will be the icing on the cake.

A piece of cake

Interested in getting into cake decorating? Rosalind says:

- Go to well known and relevant schools.
- Get an internship and work with the best.
- Take additional courses to build up your skill level.
- Social media — hit the websites and food blogs to introduce yourself to the market.

SUBMITTED

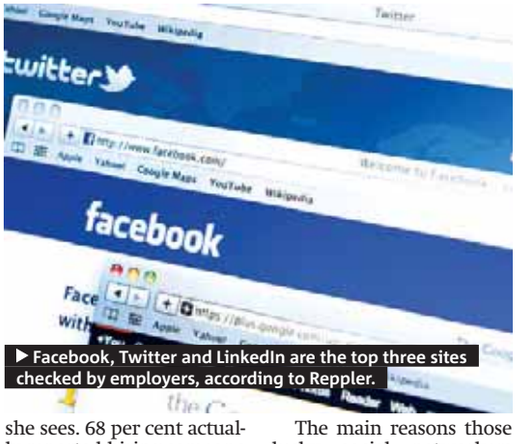
It's no secret that your social networking site can be your own worst enemy if it's filled with inappropriate photos from your bachelorette party or fraternity initiation. However, Reppler, a company that will get rid of all the dirt in your profile for you, conducted a survey that shows just how influential your social networking sites during the hiring process and about 47 per cent will get right to it as soon as you turn in an application. The most frequently checked sites are Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn.

An alarming 69 per cent of those employers have actually rejected a job candidate because of something they saw on their social networking site. (Note: Remove Halloween pics of slutty school girl costume when applying for teaching job at a Catholic school.)

The main reasons those candidates got rejected were because they lied about their qualifications, posted inappropriate photos (no surprise there), demonstrated poor communication skills (we know you only get 140 characters, but use punctuation!), posted negative comments about a previous employer or just posted inappropriate comments.

Now, the good news is that your profile can also work in your favour if an employer likes what he or she sees. 68 per cent actually reported hiring someone because of what they saw on a profile.

ISTOCK



▶ Facebook, Twitter and LinkedIn are the top three sites checked by employers, according to Reppler.

91%
of employers will check out your social networking sites during the hiring process, according to social media monitoring service Reppler.

The main reasons those lucky social networkers landed a job is because they gave a positive impression of their personality or organizational fit, their profile supported their professional qualifications or their profile showed they were creative.

So no need to deactivate your accounts — just think of them more like a resumé because you can pretty much count on a future employer stalking you just as much as your ex does.

Cardinals headed to Series

St. Louis bullpen bottles up Brewers, earning team a chance to play Rangers for title

CHRISTIAN PETERSEN/GETTY IMAGES

▶ Daniel Descalso, Jason Motte and Yadier Molina celebrate after St. Louis won the NL pennant last night.

An afterthought in early September, the St. Louis Cardinals are taking their wild ride all the way to the World Series.

David Freese hit a three-run homer in the first and manager Tony La Russa turned again to his brilliant bullpen for seven sturdy innings as St. Louis captured its 18th pennant with a 12-6 victory over the bumbling Milwaukee Brewers last night.

Albert Pujols and the wild-card Cardinals took out the heavily favoured Phillies in the first round, then dispatched the division-rival Brewers on their own turf in Game 6 of the NL championship series.

Looking for its second title in six seasons, St. Louis opens the World Series at home Wednesday night with ace Chris Carpenter on the mound against the AL champion Texas Rangers.

Trailing by 10½ games in the wild-card race on Aug. 25, the Cardinals surged down the stretch and took advantage of a monumental collapse by Atlanta to win a playoff spot on the final night of the regular season.

Now, bolstered by a group of no-name relievers who keep answering La Russa's call, the Cardinals are back in the World Series for the first time since beating Detroit in 2006.

What a relief!

It was a disappointing end to a scintillating season for Prince Fielder, Ryan Braun and the NL Central champion Brewers, who finished with a franchise-record 96 wins, six games ahead of St. Louis.

Baseball's best home team collapsed in the NLCS, though, losing twice at Miller Park in an error-filled flop.

It was likely Fielder's final game with the Brewers, too. He's a free agent after the season.

Rafael Furcal and Pujols hit solo homers off Chris Narveson and St. Louis built a 9-4 lead by the time the bullpen took over for Edwin Jackson in the third inning.

The group of Fernando Salas, Marc Rzepczynski, Octavio Dotel, Lance Lynn and Jason Motte allowed two runs the rest of the way.

For the series, St. Louis relievers finished 3-0 with a 1.88 ERA over 28⅔ innings.

The biggest scare came when Pujols appeared shaken up after tagging out Braun in the fifth inning when he fell hard on his right forearm on a close play at first base. The three-time MVP was slow to get up, but stayed in the game.

Unfamiliar foes

The last time the Rangers and Cardinals faced off was in a 2004 interleague series in Texas.

▶ Even in this era of interleague play, that's the only time the Cardinals and Rangers have met when it meant something. According to STATS LLC, that matches the fewest games between a pair of opponents in the majors, tying the Mets-White Sox.

Allen headlines Hall of Fame class

Damon Allen is heading into the Canadian Football Hall of Fame.

Allen, who saw Anthony Calvillo break three of his all-time CFL passing records this year, headlined the 2012 induction class announced yesterday on TSN at halftime of the game between the Montreal Alouettes and the Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Also named for enshrinement are former players Milt Stegall, Tyrone Jones (posthumously) and Jack Abendschan.

Former CFL tailback Eric Lapointe will be inducted as a Canadian university player while former Calgary Dinos head coach Peter Connellan and B.C. Lions and Toronto Argonauts owner David Braley were named as builders.

Allen, 48, spent 23 seasons in the CFL and retired following the 2007 season as the league leader in passing yards (72,381), touchdowns (394) and completions (5,158).

Driver dies after fiery crash

Two time Indy 500 winner Dan Wheldon was involved in 15-car wreck at Las Vegas Indy 300

Dan Wheldon, who moved to the United States from his native England with hopes of winning the Indianapolis 500 and went on to prevail at his sport's most famed race twice, died yesterday after a massive, fiery wreck at the Las Vegas Indy 300.

He was 33.

Wheldon, who won the Indy 500 for the second time this May, won 16 times in his IndyCar career and was the series champion in 2005. He was airlifted from the Las Vegas track at 1:19 p.m. local time yesterday and taken to a nearby hospital, becoming the first IndyCar driver to die after an on-track crash since rookie Paul Dana was killed in practice on the morning of race day at Homestead-Miami Speedway in 2006.

DARRON CUMMINGS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

▶ Dan Wheldon

As word began to spread that his injuries were fatal, those at the track could not control their tears. The remainder of the race was cancelled. Drivers solemnly returned to the track for a five-lap tribute to Wheldon, almost all of them hiding their eyes behind dark sunglasses after being told their colleague was gone.

The race was only minutes old when Wheldon, who started at the back of the 34-car field and was in position for a $5 million US payday if he could have won the race, was one of 15 cars involved in a wreck that started when two cars touched tires.

Several cars burst into flames, and debris was all over the track, some of the impact so intense that workers needed to patch holes in the asphalt.

Bills a big play short of slaying Giants

New York running back Bradshaw burns Buffalo for three touchdowns

For a change, the New York Giants didn't have to rely solely on Eli Manning's arm. They are heading into the bye week with hope, now that they've found a running game.

Ahmad Bradshaw ran for a season-high 104 yards and a career-best three touchdowns and Lawrence Tynes kicked a go-ahead 23-yard field goal with 1:32 remaining to give the New York Giants a 27-24 victory over the Buffalo Bills yesterday.

The win puts the Giants (4-2) in first place in the NFC East.

"This is a huge win for us," guard David Diehl said. "Coming into this game, we had a lot of things on our minds, with No. 1 being getting the run game going."

Ryan Fitzpatrick was 21-of-30 for 244 yards with touchdown passes of 60 yards to Naaman Roosevelt and nine yards to Stevie Johnson. However, the Bills (4-2) quarterback had two turnovers and his final attempt was batted down by New York's Jason Pierre-Paul on a fourth-and-five to end Buffalo's chances.

Fred Jackson had another monster game for the Bills, rushing for 121 yards, including a career-high 80-yard TD run. He also caught five passes for 47 yards.

1 Alex Smith's fourth-down, six-yard pass to Delanie Walker gave San Francisco the go-ahead touchdown with 1:51 left, lifting the 49ers to a 25-19 win over the previously unbeaten Detroit Lions.

2 Aaron Rodgers threw three touchdowns, including a career-long 93-yarder to Jordy Nelson, in the Green Bay Packers one-sided 24-3 win over the St. Louis Rams.

3 Tom Brady threw an eight-yard touchdown pass to Aaron Hernandez with 22 seconds left and the New England Patriots rallied for a 20-16 win over the Dallas Cowboys.

Crabb makes case for Leafs to call him up from Marlies

Joey Crabb is making an early season push to get back up in the Toronto Maple Leafs' lineup.

Crabb scored twice and Jussi Rynnas made 21 saves in his first start of the season yesterday as the Toronto Marlies shut out the Lake Erie Monsters 4-0 in the American Hockey League.

After being cut from the big club during training camp, Crabb has gotten off to a quick start with the Marlies. The Anchorage, Alaska, native has three goals and seven points in four games to start the 2011-12 season.

Crabb is tied now with Joe Colborne, who had an assist, for the Marlies' scoring lead.

Jeff Finger and Jerry D'Amigo had the other goals for Toronto, while Mike Zigomanis added a pair of assists.

James Reid made 23 saves in the loss for the Monsters.

The Marlies swept back-to-back games from the Monsters over the weekend after winning 5-3 on Saturday.

That runs their record to 3-1-0 to start the 2011-12 season. Lake Erie is winless in four games.

Crabb played 48 games with the Leafs last season, scoring three goals and adding 12 assists, and fit in well defensively in mostly third- and fourth-line duty. But he didn't make the Leafs to start the season and was sent down to the Marlies after clearing waivers.

Lost Angel
This Sunday marks the beginning of our third month together, and what an emotional rollercoaster it has been! Angel, I wouldn't take a minute back. Every morning that we share, every sunrise, every second that I can steal with you makes my life better. Every time you cross my mind, I am reminded how lucky I am. Je t'adore mon amour! You truly are, my everything.
CRAZY <4 U!

♈ Aries March 21-April 20 Life is a great adventure or it is nothing, so get out there and make your mark on the world.

♉ Taurus April 21-May 21 Start thinking now about ways you can make the second half better than the first.

♊ Gemini May 22-June 21 There is no limit to what you can accomplish, so don't limit your vision.

♋ Cancer June 22-July 22 You have wasted enough emotional and intellectual energy on senseless disputes.

♌ Leo July 23-Aug.23 You seem to have missed out on a promising opportunity, simply because you were too stubborn to admit that someone else's idea was better than your own.

♍ Virgo Aug. 24- Sept. 22 Stand up for what you believe in and don't let anyone, no matter how powerful, tell you that you have no right to your own opinions.

♎ Libra Sept. 23-Oct. 23 The Sun remains in your birth sign only until next weekend, so make the most of the next few days.

♏ Scorpio Oct. 24-Nov. 22 Recent events have been anything but easy and there will be more challenges over the next few days,

♐ Sagittarius Nov. 23-Dec. 21 You cannot change other people, you can only live well and be a good example.

♑ Capricorn Dec. 22-Jan. 20 Make a special effort today to put some distance between yourself and a group of people who have clearly misled you

♒ Aquarius Jan. 21-Feb. 18 There is still time to make your mark.

♓ Pisces Feb. 19-March 20. Don't listen to other people, listen to your heart. SALLY BROMPTON
